Students who don’t engage in academic activities over the summer lose ground. Below are a few easy suggestions to prevent this from happening.

1. Play the Everyday Math online games.
2. Practice the math facts with flash cards.
3. Visit the library once a week. (watch for a summer reading list in the report card.)
4. Keep a journal on vacations or day trips.

Students should be studying the states. They need to be able to identify all 50 with 80% accuracy by the end of the year.
